Track 7 is adapted from "Indian Rope Man" by Richie Havens. All songs are registered at the Performing Rights Society as being written by Bob Marley except where indicated. However, according to Neville Livingston, also known as Bunny Wailer, all compositions were co-written by Bob Marley, Peter Tosh and Neville Livingston except where indicated. Lee Perry also claims having written or co-written some of these songs with Bob Marley. All tracks are subject to copyright control and are administered by Blue Mountain Music Ltd, except where indicated.

Although the best sources have been thoroughly researched, some of the original session tapes could not be located.

Thanks to Jean-Michel Fava, Chris Lane,
Harry Hawke, Tatiana Prus, Marc "Nof-Nof" Tourtchaninoff, Olivier Albot, David Katz, Distant Drums magazine, and thanks to Steve Barrow and Alan Freed for inspiration.

Several Peter Tosh solo singles were issued during this same period. They were not Wailers recordings but Tosh solo material and have therefore not been included in this series.

For legal reasons, the songs Don't Rock My Boat (alternate II), Duppy Conqueror (version 4) and Sun Is Shining, which belong on this Soul Revolution Part II album could not be included on this triple CD special edition.
